

Supporting Inclusion Through Sport | Wheelchair Rugby

Degnan is proud to continue its partnership with Wheelchair Rugby Australia (WRA), reaffirming its commitment to promoting disability inclusion, equality, and rehabilitation. As a major sponsor, Degnan has supported the sport's growth and development since 2022, enhancing opportunities for players and fostering a more inclusive society.

This partnership aligns with Degnan's goal of delivering transformative infrastructure that benefits all members of the community. Our support goes beyond sponsorship—it reflects our commitment to inclusivity, empowerment, and community engagement. Through meaningful contributions and active involvement, Degnan plays a pivotal role in advancing wheelchair rugby and enriching lives.

Celebrating Accessibility and Excellence

During the opening of the Unanderra Station Accessibility Upgrade, Degnan hosted Wheelchair Rugby Australia athletes Darren Harris and Jacob Cremen-Darkin. The athletes toured the station's new lifts and footbridge while discussing their training, upcoming events, and the importance of accessible transport infrastructure.

This collaboration underscores Degnan's commitment to embedding accessibility into projects, ensuring public spaces and transport are designed for everyone. The event also celebrated the Australian Wheelchair

Rugby team's triumph at the 2023 World Championships in France, showcasing their global excellence..

Looking Ahead

Degnan began its partnership with WRA in 2022 and signed an extended three-year commitment in 2024. WRA CEO Chris Nay said, "With Degnan's continued support, we can make longer-term decisions to improve pathways and participant experiences."

Degnan recognises that this ongoing partnership helps ensure the sport's sustainability and growth, further enhancing its positive impact on players and communities alike.

"It's an honour to support this impactful sport, promoting inclusivity and empowering people with disabilities"
